HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhoea and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendale, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fatter than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat heartily. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day.

A CHINESE BANQUET.

Three Hours of Queer Dishes and Peculiar Combinations.

For the first course were handed sugared cakes, caviar, fried grasshoppers, dried fruits and Ningpo oysters. Then followed successively at short intervals ducks, pigeons' and peewits' eggs poached, swallows' nests with mashed eggs, fricassees of ginseng, stewed sturgeons' gills, whales' sinews with sweet sauce, fresh water tadpoles, fried crabs' spawn, sparrows' gizzards, sheep's eyes stuffed with garlic, radishes in milk flavored with apricot kernels, matelotes of holothurians, bamboo sprouts in soup and sweet salads, says The Leisure Hour.

The last course consisted of pineapples from Singapore, earthnuts, salted almonds, savory mangoes, the white, fleshy fruits of the long yen, the pulpy fruits of the litchiee, chestnuts and preserved oranges from Canton. After the dessert ride was served, which the guests raised to their mouths with little chopsticks, according to the custom of their country.

Three hours were spent over the banquet. When it was ended and at the time when, according to European usage, salvers of rosewater are frequently handed round, the waiting maids brought napkins steeped in warm water, which all the company rubbed over their faces apparently with great satisfaction.

Old Marriage Manners.

The French "dot" comes probably from the small coin which the Roman bride brought with her to her husband's house.

The modern scramble for the bride's bouquet comes from a similar scramble that took place at the close of the ancient ceremony, when the guests fought good naturedly over the white thorn torch that had been borne in the bridal procession. The most marked difference between old and new ideas lies in the fact that a part of June was forbidden the Romans as a time for weddings. From the 1st to the 15th the month was sacred to Vesta, and no marriages were permitted, although Vesta herself was the goddess of domesticity. May, too, was prohibited, and this is thought to be the reason why May marriages are still considered unlucky. Roman belief and customs forbade the ceremony also from the 13th to the 24th of February, from the 1st to the 6th of March, on the 24th of August, the 5th of October and the 6th of November, three days when hades was supposed to be particularly wide open.

The Earthquake.

To the average resident of the temperate zones an earthquake is a rare and terrible event, creating more consternation than any other visitation of nature. In the tropics, however, particularly in Central America, it is wonderful how easily the residents become accustomed to these shocks, which do not come, however, wholly without warning. You are sitting on a piazza on a hot afternoon chatting with your friends when suddenly the sky seems to grow hazy, and the crows stop cawing. There is a general rush, and, though you may not know what is the matter, you cannot help feeling uneasy.

The old natives say, "We're going to have a little shake," and then the house begins to rock, the tumbler fall off the table, you feel deathly sick at the stomach, and the thing is all over. The sky clears, the crows begin their noisy screams, and things are soon put right again.

A Dog's Graveyard.

Edinburgh boasts of the only graveyard where canine pets are regularly interred and their last resting places marked with gravestones. This old cemetery lies on the northern face of the Castle Rock, below St. Margaret's chapel, in the famous old castle of Edinburgh. It was founded a long time ago for the exclusive use of dogs who have been pets of the various regiments which have been quartered at the castle. Almost two score dogs have been buried in it, and the grave of each one is marked, some with stones as large as are used for human beings and others merely tiny monuments. The cemetery is inclosed by a low wall of stone and is always pointed out to visitors as the only one of its kind in the world.

Justifiable.

On one occasion Governor Dick Oglesby went down to Joliet to inspect the state prison, and in one of the cells he found a very ugly man.

"How did you get in here?" asked Oglesby.

"Abduction," was the reply. "I tried to run off with a girl, and they caught me."

"I'll pardon you as soon as I get back to Springfield," said the governor. "I don't see how you could expect to get a wife in any other way."

Accommodating.

There is a point to this story: A burglar whose night entry into the parsonage awakened the sleeping pastor said to his helpless victim: "If you stir, you're a dead man! I'm hunting for money."

"Just let me get up and strike a light," pleasantly replied the domestic, "and I shall be glad to assist you in the search."—Boston Watchman.

THE HUMAN EAR.

It is a Delicate Organ and Should Be Treated Carefully.

The human ear is a much more delicate organ than most people suppose. It is extremely dangerous to interfere with it by use of ear picks or any of the various instruments used for the purpose of cleaning it from wax. The wax is a natural secretion, and unless the ear becomes diseased it does not accumulate any faster than is necessary to protect the passage from the entrance of insects and various particles which might otherwise be forced in and tend to interfere permanently with the hearing.

The greatest care is necessary in washing the ears of little children. They should be washed outside, but on the inside only so far as the finger wrapped in a soft towel will go. The practice of forcing a hairpin or any other hard instrument into the ear passage is fraught with danger of injuring the membrane, causing permanent deafness. Earache is a malady of childhood and causes most distressing pain. The simplest remedy for it is to take a little cotton dipped in warm sweet oil and put it in the ear passage.

A danger that may arise from doing so simple a thing as this is that minute particles of the cotton may be left in the ear. To prevent this some physicians advise making a little wad of the cotton and wrapping it in the finest and thinnest linen cambric that can be found and dipping this in warm sweet oil. In case of intense pain a few drops of hot laudanum or camphor may be used with the oil.

When foreign bodies get into the ear, they should be removed by syringing them out with warm water. To attempt to remove anything from the ear passage by forcing an instrument in is a rash thing for any one except an aurist to undertake. The best medical practitioners refuse to treat affections of the ear or eye, but send their patients to specialists.

Christmas Card Evolution.

The Christmas card dates back to 1842, in which year the idea of such a device occurred to Sir Henry Cole, who employed the famous artist, J. C. Horsley, to make the design for him. Sir Henry gave his idea and design to a London publisher, who printed and sold about a thousand cards. They were lithographed and then colored by hand. Such was the small beginning of what is now an immense business. Every Christmas cards were put on the market, but they did not seem to be popular until 1862, when they came suddenly into favor in England and soon began to be used to a considerable extent on this side of the water. It was some years, however, before the Christmas card achieved in the United States the great popularity which it now enjoys. The first Christmas cards were simple affairs, those of the early sixties being mostly plain cards bearing the words "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" only. They soon began to grow in ornateness, however, and finally arrived at their present state.

A Veteran Danseuse.

Probably the professional life of no class is so short as that of the ladies who dance for our delight in the season of pantomime, and none nowadays can be said to dance through two generations. What a surprise the present public would experience at such an announcement as appeared in the London Weekly Journal of Jan. 26, 1723, that a veteran danseuse, aged seventy-one, would on a certain date perform a series of dances. The celebrated Peggy Fryar, therein advertised, had publicly danced in the early years of the reign of Charles II. and made her final appearance in the time of George II. Her dancing in her seventy-second year drew crowds to the New theater in the Haymarket in 1723, but the charm was probably the novelty rather than the excellence of her performance.

A Clever Retort.

An old lady brought up as a witness before a bench of magistrates when asked to take off her bonnet refused to do so, saying, "There's no law compelling a woman to take off her bonnet." "Oh," said one of the magistrates, "you know the law, do you? Perhaps you would like to come up and sit here and teach us?" "No, I thank you, sir," replied the old lady, "there are old women enough there already."

Popping a Question.

"Can you cook?" he asked tenderly after he had suggested the probability that he would marry soon.

"No," she answered, removing her chair a degree or two north of his; "I neither cook nor am given in cooking. You will find what you need at the intelligence office."

And he went his way quickly, a wiser and a madder man.

The Lace Bark Tree.

Among remarkable trees is the lace bark tree of Jamaica, the inner bark of which is composed of many layers of fibers that interlace it in all directions. Caps, ruffles and even complete suits of lace are made from it. It bears washing with common soap and when bleached in the sun acquires a degree of whiteness equal to the best artificial lace, with which this surprising natural product compares quite favorably as to beauty.

THE WANDERING JEW.

Some of the Legends About This Figure in Sacred History.

There are many legends that tell the story of the Wandering Jew. The old Jewish story is that Carthaphilos, the bookkeeper of the Judgment hall under the employ of Pontius Pilate, struck our Lord as he was led from the hall, saying: "Go faster! Get on!" Jesus turned to him and said, "I go, but you tarry until I come again." Cursed though he was, he afterward became a Christian and was baptized. In tradition he still lives, falling into a protracted trance every thirty years.

Another legend tells us that Jesus, almost overcome by the weight of the cross as he was carrying it to the place of execution, stopped before the shop of a cobbler and rested his hand against the wall of the building. This enraged the cobbler, whose name was Ahasuerus, to such an extent that he threw a last at the Man of Sorrows, crying to him: "Get off! Away with you!" Jesus rebuked him, saying, "I go and go quickly, but command thee to wander over the earth until the judgment day." This last legend is the one given by Paul von Eitzen, bishop of Sleswick, in the year 1547.

A third legend says that Ahasuerus had been detailed to bring Jesus into the Judgment hall of Pilate and that he was rushing our Lord along at a swift gait when Jesus complained of weariness and requested to sit down on a stone by the wayside. This request was refused by the heartless wretch, who exclaimed: "Move on, Jesus, move on! Thou shalt not rest!" Jesus replied, "I go my way unto everlasting rest, but thou shalt go away and never rest until I return to earth again."

An Heirloom in the Family.

The person who is inclined to boast of his valuable possessions is likely to have the laugh turned upon him on occasions. A wealthy man was once proudly exhibiting to some acquaintances a table which he had bought and which he said was 500 years old.

"That is nothing," said one of the company. "I have in my possession a table which is more than 3,000 years old."

"Three thousand years old!" said his host. "That is impossible! Where was it made?"

"Probably in India."

"In India! What kind of a table is it?"

"The multiplication table!"

DEATH OF CHAS. AGNEW.

Passed Away at the Family Home in Petaluma.

Chas. C. Agnew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Agnew, formerly of this valley, died at the family home in Petaluma last Tuesday morning. He leaves a widow, three children and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. J. J. Dunbar, Sonoma; Mrs. C. V. Chaplin, Oregon; Mrs. M. Weyl, Oakland; Mrs. C. A. Cooper, Newton W. Agnew, Asahel and Sadie Agnew, Petaluma.

The Courier, in commenting on the young man's death, says: "The deceased was a native of California and was born in Sonoma thirty-four years ago. Some years ago he married Miss Dettie Rude of Paso Robles, at which place he resided until six months ago, when his health began to fail. He had heart trouble, which also brought on Bright's disease and dropsy, the latter having hastened his death. About three months ago his mother went to Paso Robles and brought her son to Petaluma, thinking the change would be of benefit to him. He steadily grew worse, nevertheless. The best of medical aid was tried, but to no avail, and Tuesday morning he peacefully breathed his last.

"The deceased was an upright, honorable young man, made friends and retained them, and was popular throughout Sonoma county. His death seems all the more sad when it is learned that he left beside the widow three little children, the youngest being, but two years old, who little realize their loss."

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, the remains being interred in the family plot in Cypress Hill Cemetery. The family have the sincere sympathy of many Sonoma friends.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL

WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

EL. VERANO. HAPPENINGS.

Other Items of Interest as Recorded by "You Know."

H. Lauen visited Sonoma one day this week.

Raoul Empanan of Sonoma was in town Monday.

A. W. Weaver was an El Verano visitor to Napa last Sunday.

Wm. H. Kerner, the genial proprietor of the O K saloon, Sonoma, was in town Thursday.

Peter Gouailhardou, mine host of the Bellevue Hotel, has been quite ill the past few days.

Felice Clerici has christened his saloon "The New El Verano," and will have his opening Saturday.

Wm. J. Kearney left for Tuolumne county Saturday morning last, where he will visit a few weeks.

Editor Granice of Sonoma was in town Tuesday shaking hands with his many friends in this burg.

Frank Cologne, clerk in the Bellevue Hotel, has resigned his position to accept a similar place at the Lawrence Villa.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis boarded the Southern Pacific train at this place Sunday for Sacramento after a visit of several days on their ranch near here.

Mons. Felix Gouailhardou, father of P. Gouailhardou, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Serveau, arrived in town Thursday and are guests at the Bellevue.

Wm. Cummings, the popular Schellville station agent, passed through here on the Southern Pacific train on Friday evening of last week en route to Santa Rosa.

A. Yenni, who recently brought the saloon building occupied by Felice Clerici, will take possession Saturday. He will remodel the building and will open up a first-class saloon in about ten days.

Emile Lounibos, Fred. Carriger and Tom Mullen of this place were three of the six pall-bearers who escorted the remains of Vicente Carrillo to their last resting place in Mountain Cemetery.

It is claimed by many of the old residents in this valley that the aged Indian who died here Monday was actually 118 years old instead of 114. The latter figures, however, are generally accepted as being correct.

An exciting and disastrous runaway took place here last Saturday. A span of spirited horses attached to a farm wagon which were being driven by an employee of J. P. Key became frightened as the driver attempted to cross the railway track in front of a puffing and snorting freight engine, and ran away. The team dashed down the track and ran into a trestle. The driver pluckily held on to the reins until the trestle was reached when he lost his seat and was thrown with great force to the ground, but fortunately escaped serious injury. The wagon, however, was wrecked and one of the horses badly cut up and disabled. It took the train hands an hour to get the wrecked wagon and struggling horses out of the trestle, and the train was delayed an hour and a half.

What Wit Is.

Dr. Isaac Barrow, a famous English divine and a man of brilliant wit himself, gave the best definition of wit yet known, and he confessed that "often it consisteth in one hardly knows what." He said in his old fashioned style:

"Sometimes it lieth in a pat allusion to a known story or in seasonable application of a trivial saying or in forging an opposite tale. Sometimes it playeth in words and phrases, taking advantage from the ambiguity of their sense or the affinity of their sound. Sometimes it lurketh under an odd similitude. Sometimes it is lodged in a sly question, in a smart answer, in a quick reason, in a shrewd imitation, a tart irony, a lusty hyperbole or a startling metaphor. Sometimes an affected simplicity and sometimes a presumptuous bluntness giveth it being. Sometimes it arises from a lucky hitting upon what is strange; sometimes from a crafty wrestling of obvious matter to the purpose."

A Printer Greatly Surprised.

"Never was so much surprised in my life as I was with the results of using Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says Henry T. Crook, pressman of the Ashville (N. C.) Gazette. "I contracted a severe case of rheumatism early last winter by getting my feet wet. I tried several things for it without benefit. One day while looking over the Gazette, I noticed that Pain Balm was positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, so bought a bottle of it and before using two thirds of it my rheumatism had taken its flight and I have not had a rheumatic pain since." A SHOCK TO THE COMMUNITY.

The Coroner's Verdict.

"I had just said good-bye to him, and he ran down the steps from my office laughing, throwing a joke over his shoulder as he went. He looked the picture of health and strength. Ten minutes later I was called to where he lay rigid and silent on the sidewalk. His life had been snuffed out like a candle." That was a friend's testimony before the coroner. The verdict of the coroner's jury was—"Died of heart failure." The next day the press chronicled the sudden taking of a well-known citizen under the familiar head of "A Shock to the Community." Then the "street" soon ceased to remember the man so swiftly taken away.

This is no fancy sketch. Every day deaths occur in some such manner—deaths attributed to heart failure by the medical profession. Cold science has ridiculed the idea of dying of a broken heart. Hearts don't break says science. But it has to admit that

HEARTS BREAK DOWN.

A man who has a valuable engine, gives it a good track to run on, tests its capacity and keeps well inside it, keeps it always properly lubricated and does all that is possible to get the best results with least friction. Suppose the man ran his engine carelessly of the water in the boiler or the fuel under the engine and regardless of the steam gage. Suppose he crowded the engine up grade, and coupled an extra car or two to the train he was pulling, regardless of the fact that he was putting every ounce of strain on the engine it could bear. What would you expect? A break down. Engine failure.

Heart failure comes that way. The heart is little larger than a man's fist and is the most wonderful as it is the most delicate of organs. In each twenty-four hours the dual heart moves approximately six tons of blood, which is equivalent to about two barrels of blood every hour, and this without rest or pause from the first breath of infancy to the last sigh of old age. What can you expect when a man eats regardless of the nutrition which feeds the heart as well as every other organ of the body? What can you expect when he crowds this delicate engine to the uttermost, but what happens—break down, heart failure. And the tragedy of heart failure will continue to be repeated until men are warned of the peril of overwork and inadequate nutrition.

"WEAK HEARTS"

are growing too common, and the means of establishing a healthy heart action at the same time increasing the entire phy-

VIGENTE GARILLO.

THE AGED INDIAN DIED MONDAY MORNING.

Had Reached the Remarkable Age of 114 Years—Born in Sonoma in 1788.

Vicente Carillo, the aged Indian, is dead. He passed away on the Pilastre place, near El Verano, last Monday morning, at the remarkable age of 114 years.

Coroner Pierce came down from Santa Rosa Monday afternoon and empaneled the following jury to inquire into the death of the old Indian: R. E. Mullen, P. Gonnardou, Felice Clerici, Fred Carriger, A. W. Weaver and A. Yenni. The verdict of the jury was death from natural causes.

He was born on the old Nick Carriger ranch, now known as the Lewis place, in 1788, and had lived in this valley continuously up to the day of his death.

Fifty years ago the earliest white settlers say that the aged Indian was an old man then, and there can be no doubt as to his age. At that time he was apparently about 65 years old and nearly six feet in height. As the years passed on apace the aged Indian became infirm and commenced to shrivel up, and just before his death was the exact counterpart of a living mummy. A year ago he took to his bed, and when laid out for burial there was little left of what was once a magnificent specimen of physical manhood.

Vicente Carillo, when General Vallejo came here about sixty years ago and took possession of the country in the name of Mexico, was chief of a mighty tribe of Indians that peopled this valley in those days. This Indian tribe was all but decimated by small pox which broke out here just before the discovery of gold and raged with virulence for two or three years. Old Vicente was one of the few Indian survivors of that dreadful epidemic, and he told the editor of this paper that when the disease was at its height his tribesmen lay dead in heaps in different parts of the valley—that there were not sufficient of the living left to bury the dead.

Vicente was a peaceable and faithful Indian even in those days. It is related of him by Sol Carriger and the other children of the late Nick Carriger, that their father went to the mines in 1849-50 and left his wife and children on the thousand-acre ranch he had bought from General Vallejo in sole charge of the old chief. The country was wild in those days but Vicente looked after his charges faithfully and well and when Mr. Carriger returned after a long absence he not only found his little family safe and well but his stock and other possessions had been guarded with a vigilant eye and well taken care of.

Vicente Carillo leaves a son and daughter and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren, all of whom are full-blooded Indians residing in this valley.

The old Indian was one of the unique characters of Sonoma for over a quarter of a century, and owing to his extreme old age was an object of great curiosity to visitors.

Vicente Carillo, although as chief of the Sonoma tribe of Indians was the virtual possessor of the entire Sonoma Valley at one time, he died as most of his tribesmen died before him, with only the clothes on his back, and had it not been for the generosity of the people of El Verano and Sonoma the old Indian chief would have been borne to a pauper's grave. Emile P. Lounibos and Thos. Mullen of the former place, immediately after his death headed and circulated a subscription paper to defray the expenses of giving Vicente a decent burial, and with their usual generosity the people of both town and valley responded quickly, and the body was prepared for burial by undertaker Clark, encased in a neat casket and borne to its last resting place in a hearse.

Vicente Carillo, the aborigine friend of the white man in the early days, was tenderly laid to rest in Mountain Cemetery last Wednesday. His grave overlooks the beautiful and verdant Sonoma Valley—the only spot on earth his footsteps ever trod! Here he sleeps forevermore! and as the gentle winds, sighing through the boughs of the cemetery trees, chant an eternal requiem over his last resting place, may his spirit be joined with his forefathers in that land of bliss—the happy hunting grounds of the untutored Indian.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Subjects to be Discussed by University Professors.

The Farmers' Institute, which will convene at Union Hall on Saturday, April 5th, will hold three sessions—morning, afternoon and evening. The institute, which will be held under the auspices of El Verano Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, ought to be attended by every farmer and dairyman in the Sonoma Valley, as much valuable information in regard to farm and dairy work will be disseminated.

The institute will be addressed by Professors Fowler, Loughridge and Twilight of the State University and the Master of Glen Elder Grange, Mr. Thomas Johnson. They will discuss the following subjects:

"Co-operation."

"The Silos Place in Economic Feeding."

"Alfalfa Culture."

"Importance of Green Feeding."

"Use and Conservation of Moisture in Soils."

"Fertilization of Soils."

"Diseases of the Vine."

"Sprays and their Application."

"New Methods of Grafting and Budding Applied to Re-establishment of Vineyards with American Vines."

Church Entertainment.

A grand musical and literary entertainment will be given at Union Hall by the Catholic ladies of Sonoma, for the benefit of St. Francis' Church, on Saturday evening, April 19th, 1902. The program to be presented will be made up of the best local and San Francisco talent. The main feature of the entertainment will be an operetta entitled "The Cupboard Lovers," under the direction of Mr. J. C. O'Donnell of San Francisco. Prof. O'Donnell, the prince of amateur comedians, has organized a troupe composed of five characters for the occasion, and claims that the drama will furnish five laughs a minute. In addition to the operetta some of the performers will sing the latest and up to date songs. The evening's entertainment will conclude with a social hour at which refreshments will be served. Those who attend will be assured a grand treat and an enjoyable evening. Admission to the hall will be fifty cents.

For City Marshal.

The announcement of G. H. H. Cornelius, candidate for City Marshal, appears in this issue. Mr. Cornelius' nomination came as a surprise to him as he was not seeking the office. His friends, however, stole a march upon him by filing his nomination with the City Clerk Monday night. Mr. Cornelius, seeing that he was in the hands of his friends, very graciously consented to run for the office. For years he has held the office of City Treasurer and has made a faithful, conscientious and honest official.

Mrs. Skidmore Dead.

Mrs. Nancy M. Skidmore, wife of J. Skidmore, died at her home in this place, Sunday. Deceased had been ill a long time and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Skidmore had resided in this place less than a year. She was a native of Illinois and aged 54 years and nine months. She leaves besides her husband a family of grown children residing in different parts of the State. The remains were laid to rest in Mountain Cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

OUR SPECIAL EDITION.

ARRANGEMENTS are now being made for the publication of a special edition of THE INDEX-TRIBUNE, the columns of which will be devoted exclusively to a description of the manifold attractive features of the beautiful Sonoma Valley.

The natural charms of this veritable "Vale of Avoca" have never been described in anything like a complete manner, and in consequence very few of the thousands of Eastern people, who are constantly coming west in search of homes, have any idea of the inducements that lurk in this, the prettiest and most productive valley in California.

Our object in issuing a special edition of THE INDEX-TRIBUNE is to bring prominently before our Eastern friends, and especially those who are contemplating a permanent residence in California, the exceptional advantages that await them in Sonoma Valley. We must no longer continue to hide our charms under a bushel, if we are to entice hither the pro rata of desirable home-seekers that is justly due Sonoma Valley. Other localities in California, and all less favored than this rich section, are constantly harping on their inducements and resources and distributing descriptive literature broadcast throughout the East. The result is that hundreds of people of moderate means, and many possessing great wealth, are being lured to those localities every year.

Sonoma Valley must be brought to the front, and this can be done only by advertising our attractions and advantages.

It is proposed to make the special edition an eight-page seven column paper, and it will contain, among other things, beautiful half-tone engravings of the most picturesque scenes in the valley. The illustrations will also include residences, interiors and exteriors of wineries and creameries, stock, dairy, farming and poultry scenes, etc. It will be strictly a Sonoma Valley edition and will certainly redound to our benefit, as thousands of copies will be carefully distributed throughout the East. The paper will be issued as soon as possible in order that the large number of visitors and colonists who are coming over the Rockies this spring may have an opportunity to read of the resources of Sonoma Valley before deciding upon a residence location in California. Look out for the special edition!

Re-Nominated for the City Marshalship.

Jas. H. Albertson, the present incumbent, has been re-nominated by his friends for another term as City Marshal. Mr. Albertson has held the office four years and has made an excellent officer. He is one of Sonoma's oldest residents and is possessed of good clerical abilities. His announcement appears elsewhere in these columns.

The Racket's Increasing.

News has been received that another of the Petaluma Racket Store's representatives will be at the Sonoma store in Mr. Hanger's absence, thus keeping the store open for business. They will take your order and deliver goods with very little delay. They are feeling the pulse of Sonoma people and we may expect an up-to-date dry goods and clothing store here in the near future. This would aid in keeping trade where it belongs—in Sonoma.

Easter Services.

Easter services will be held in all the churches to-morrow, and appropriate sermons will be preached by the respective pastors.

NOW LOOK OUT!

"Take care of yourself," say our friends. "I'll try to," we answer. We do take a little care, yet in spite of warm clothes, rubbers and mackintoshes, an army of people were bowled out by pneumonia and other lung and chest diseases last winter. They caught cold, neglected it, let it fix upon them, were torn by coughs, choked by inflammations and congestions, wasted by fever, tired out by pain and then gave up the fight. The hour you realize that you have a cold on the chest, place a Benson's Porous Plaster where the pain or oppression is felt. If you think two are needed make it two. No harm if you were covered with them. They act quickly and prevent the engorgement of blood in the organs. In this way—with ordinary caution as to exposure—you will break up the cold and avoid a serious sickness. No other applications, or any other form of treatment, will accomplish this as certainly and speedily. Benson's Plasters have a distinct and positive action and are curative to the highest degree. Use them with the same confidence for congestive muscular rheumatism, the grip (back and chest) and all similar ailments. Women, who are chief sufferers from cold-weather complaints, should keep these plasters always within reach. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will, by mail, send you a box of plasters on receipt of 25c. each. Seabury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N. Y.

Should I begin a business letter to an unmarried woman with "Dear Miss" or is "Dear Madam" correct for either a married or single woman? "Dear Madam" is correct, whether the woman addressed be married or single. "Dear Miss" is not in good taste unless the name follows, as "Dear Miss Smith."
